

Color Chart

Grapevine Studies encourages you to use the colors of your choice, however, many people have asked us for our color scheme and we have roughly provided it below.

Purple: Reserved for references to God, God the Father, Jesus Christ, the Holy Spirit. Usually we use a purple triangle to reference God or God the Father, a purple cross for Jesus, and a purple bird for the Holy Spirit. I also use purple for the Tabernacle, the Temple and the Gospel.

Blue: Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, the children of Israel, Star of David, Samuel, Nehemiah, the country of Judah, Kings of Judah, Babylon, water, and men in general. Anytime that the Jews or religious leaders are mentioned in the New Testament.

Green: Creation, the kings (Saul, David, Solomon), a prophet, Daniel, money, the Disciples, the Wise Men,

Yellow: glory, sun, moon, stars, Twelve Spies (the ten who wanted to return to Egypt), Pilate, angels, camels, articles in the Temple and Tabernacle, lions, and the Armor of God,

Orange: Joseph, Joshua, Elizabeth, and Stephen.

Red: Heart of Man, Moses, Ruth, Esther, the country of Israel, Kings of Israel, Assyria, blood, and women in general, cup (Last Supper), Saul/Paul, Romans, Satan, and demons.

Brown: Noah, Job, Egypt, The Desert, Ezra, John the Baptist, bread, animals, the cross and the tomb.

Black: Sin, Tower of Babel, The Law, Herod, darkness, animals and idols.
